HERITAGE TRAIN TO FERRY NORTHERN VICTORIANS TO BIRREGURRA WEEKEND FESTIVAL

Birregurra may have only one pub, but for almost a decade thousands of visitors have descended on the tiny hamlet – only 30 minutes from the Great Ocean Road – to embrace authentic country hospitality at the Birregurra Weekend Festival & Art Show.

The Victorian Western District's finest food, wine, art and music will again be showcased at this year's Festival from October 10 to 12, and Melburnians can board a return Heritage Blue Train to the event on Saturday October 11.

The 2008 Festival will continue the community tradition established by previous events with a line-up of market stalls and local producers selling olives, ice-cream, cheese, beer, wine, Chai and Devonshire tea. Visitors will also have the opportunity to stock up on vegetables, cakes, grain-fed meat and gourmet sausages.

The Art Show kicks off the festivities with a Friday night opening and has consistently attracted a high standard of entries in categories including botanical art, watercolour, oil, drawing and pastelwork. Photomedia will be introduced for the first time this year and all exhibited works will be for sale.

The Festival stops traffic – literally – with roving circus performers; dog jumping and terrier races; long-haired llamas; camel rides; and a children's farmyard. Other highlights include a rock climbing wall, beech jeep rides and live musical shows for the kids; crafts; and a vintage train display.

The event promises an eclectic mix of music all weekend on the town centre's main stage and at Christ Church – renowned for its acoustics. The Church will host gospel, folk, pop, rock n' roll, country and classical music performed by local artists, and a 'textile extravaganza' featuring fashion parades, wearable art, fibre and textiles stalls. Original sculptures will be exhibited in the Church grounds.

For those essential pantry fillers, don't forget your calico bag or basket; Birregurra was declared Victoria's first "plastic bag free" town – a badge it wears proudly!

To take the Heritage Blue Train from Seymour, Broadford, Kilmore East or Wallan on Saturday 11th October, visit www.srhc.org.au for details.
